John Langevin Dies When Trench Caves In

LAC LA BICHE—On Saturday morning, August 2, at 11:30, Mr. John Langevin, 36, of Lac la Biche Mission, was killed when a 12 foot trench in which he was working caved in. Mr. Langevin died instantly from a fractured brain and a crushed chest. Dr. Brimsmeade and Constable Kennedy attended the accident. The funeral was held in St. Catharine's Roman Catholic Church on Wednesday, August 6, and interment was made at Lac la Biche Mission. He was laid to rest beside his eldest brother, Ovid, who passed away ten years ago. Mr. Langevin is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Langevin; three brothers, George, Rene and Alfonse; and two sisters, Mrs. John Bouvier and Yvonne Langevin, all of Lac la Biche.

Mr. Floyd Bassett, tool push for Iron Drilling, has been transferred to Water Valley to a larger rig. Jack Hiebert has been promoted to Tool Push in his place here.

Miss Alom Horosko, employee of Milner & Steer law office, Edmonton, visited Mrs. Tatum and Lucille enroute to Goose Lake to visit her mother over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Warnock, from Bristol, Oklahoma, are visiting Mr. Warnock's sister, Mrs. Ed. Diesel, Sr., and family, also Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Nelson from Tulsa, Oklahoma. Mr. Deisel's nephew, is visiting the Deisel family.

Miss Winnie Miller from Edmonton visited friends here after spending a week visiting her uncle, Herbert Erickson, at Goose Lake.

Lac La Biche News Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Amiot were favored with many visitors recently. Among them were: Mr. and Mrs. Armand Ostiguy from Foothills, and son, Reginald. Mr. and Mrs. Roland St. Louis and two children came to spend a few days before returning to their home. Mr. and Mrs. Ostiguy had spent the last two weeks travelling to Vancouver and the U.S.A.

It was to welcome our new priest, on Sunday, July 27, when Rev. St. Arnaud came for the first time to say Mass at our church. He will replace Rev. Knebel, who has been transferred to Vilna.

Mr. Raymond Lebeuf from Edmonton, also came to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Amiot.

The sympathies of the residents of this district are extended to Mr. Lebeuf, whose dear wife died on June 28 in Edmonton.

Mr. Egyde Lemay is spending a few days in hospital with tonsillitis. A speedy recovery is wished him.

Mr. Martin Schaub of Plamondon is working for A. L. L'Heureux. He is breaking some land. Mr. L'Heureux has also several other men working for him, picking stones and making hay.

RECOUNT MAY BE ASKED FOLLOWING NARROW SOCIAL CREDIT VICTORY

A recount may be asked by the Liberal party in the Lac la Biche riding, following the narrow victory by Social Crediter Harry Lobay over Liberal candidate William Hamilton.

Mr. Lobay defeated Mr. Hamilton in last Tuesday's general election balloting, 1804 votes to 1743.

For a time the Liberal candidate was ahead, but when all polls reported, Mr. Lobay gained a 60-vote margin.

An "official" count was being made at press time. Liberal leader J. Harper Prowse said his party might ask for a recount after the official return is made.

Aloisio Carries Athabasca Riding For Social Credit

Antonio Aloisio, Social Credit candidate in the Athabasca riding, won election over three opponents in last week's Alberta general election, although final figures for the constituency are not yet available.

With 42 of 47 polls reporting, Mr. Aloisio had 1,868 votes, a margin of 61 over the combined total of his opponents.

Trailing far back in second place was Liberal standard-bearer Valentine Breckenridge. He had 829 votes.

CCF candidate Lyl McMillan received 569 votes, and Independent Sam Nowakowsky tallied 409 votes.

Liberal Meeting Well Attended

PLAMONDON—A Liberal meeting was held in the Plamondon Community hall a few days previous to election, and was very well attended. Mr. Belzel spoke in favor of Willie Hamilton and Mr. Hamilton pledged his support to the people if he was elected as their member in this the Lac la Biche district.

The meeting was very interesting and at times discussions arose as is usual at a political meeting. It was however a little hard to determine at times just which party the meeting was being held in favor of the Liberal party or the CCF party.

Mr. Belzel stressed on many points that brought in the personnel of the provincial government rather more than one would have expected, and as all pre-election meetings are of this nature, the judgment is left to the individuals themselves.

Election day here was lovely summer weather and the number that turned out to vote reached all expectations.

Many visitors and tourists visited this town over the week-end, among them were, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Chevigney and family of Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. John Ascheker and family of Athabasca; Mr. and Mrs. C. McMillan and family of St. Albert; Mr. and Mrs. Emile Richard and family of Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Buehler and family of Sterco are spending their holidays at Plamondon with Mrs. Buehler's mother and family, the Octive Chevigneys; Mr. and Mrs. Ami Coley and family of Edmonton spent the week-end at the R. E. Piquettes and U. Menards.

Culture Club Has Garden Tour

CRAIGEND—On August 1 the girls of Craigend Culture Club had their garden tour. Miss Andressen, Home Economist, and Mr. Stewart, Alberta Wheat Pool fieldsman, were the two judges. Mrs. E. Makowichuk, leader, and Mrs. A. Benuik, assistant leader, were unable to come.

Mr. Mouille, Mr. Wowk and Mr. P. Benuik took care of the voting at Craigmend on August 5.

On August 1 the dance at the hall was a big success.

Dept. of Public Works are busy building a road for Mr. A. Grigorevich.

Mr. P. Burdeck had a mishap recently. Twelve of his sheep were killed by a wolf. Also, Mr. E. Gervais reported missing one of his cows.

Mr. Albert Happner went to Edmonton recently.

Mr. Dan Czar of Warwick recently visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Stuparek.

The High School students have received their examination results and most of them looked well pleased.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Benuik attended a wedding at Vilna recently.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Kulyk and Mr. Mm. Yakoweshen went to Boyle last Sunday to attend a meeting held by the Ukrainian Orthodox Church.

Election Results

Last week's provincial election signified one important thing: that there is no general "turn-away" in any constituency from Social Credit policies. Albertans generally approve the export of natural gas, and condone the poor roads and poor telephone service prevalent in so many rural areas.

Farmers in Alberta apparently are satisfied to wait many long years yet before getting rural electrification. Opposition party suggestions that the government speed up rural electrification with interest-free loans were turned down by the farmers themselves in favor of the present slow system where a few farms get rural power when they pay large sums for installation.

It is now evident that the majority of land owners are satisfied to receive no share of the royalties from oil profits taken from their land. They do not want reduction in municipal taxes.

Well, the people have given their verdict—a whopping endorsement of the Social Credit party for another five years. With a larger majority in the legislature, there will be less opposition to analyze and criticize government legislation. This is unfortunate, because the British system of democratic government makes the "loyal opposition" a very important part of the machinery.

This also brings to Mr. Manning and his supporters the grave responsibility of acting always in the interests of the province, knowing that if he is wrong, there isn't a strong enough opposition to make any contrary views effective.

Spoiled Ballots

A by-product of the recent election was a fairly high percentage of spoiled ballots. Suggestions had been made to the Department of Economic Affairs to run a series of advertisements in the weekly papers to explain to newcomers and those unfamiliar with the "1, 2, 3" system just how their ballots should be marked.

If these "educational" advertisements had been run in the papers it is likely that a lot less ballots would have been marked with an "X", or disqualified in some other way.

First Canadian Wheat

In 1604 fifteen or twenty acres of wheat were planted along the St. Croix River, not far from where St. Stephen, N.B., now stands. This was possibly the first wheat sown in North America, but whether it was in Maine or New Brunswick is difficult to say.

This information was given in an article on early Canadian agriculture written by Arthur Kelsall, superintendent of the Dominion experimental station at Kentville, N.S., and carried in the latest issue of the Agricultural Institute Review.

In 1603 Sieur de Monts received a charter from King Henry IV of France, making him his lieutenant-general of Acadia, a territory which included the Maritime Provinces and part of the state of Maine. Accompanied by the noted explorer, Samuel de Champlain, he set sail the following spring to explore the region. In 1604 they planted wheat along the St. Croix River but did not remain at that location. The next year, however, Champlain returned and found that the grain had come up and had ripened well.

In 1605 a settlement was established where Annapolis Royal now stands. Vegetables were planted, but there is no record of grain being planted that year. In 1606, however, Champlain reported that the following crops were sown: wheat, barley, oats, rye, flax, hemp, peas, cabbages, and radishes.

The same year a water mill was constructed to grind grain. This was the first erected in North America and went into operation some 14 years before the Pilgrim Fathers landed at Plymouth Rock. Mr. Kelsall reports that although the mill is gone, the earthworks connected with it are plainly discernible.

How To Elect A President

By T. W. PUE

After waiting a month for the election system in B.C. to divulge the winners of their June vote out there, it behooves us only slightly to criticize the electoral college system of selecting a President in the United States. This, therefore, is not so much a critical treatise as an attempt to explain what happens in the birth travail of a newly elected government in the U.S.A.

T. W. PUE

In the States, there has been talk of abolishing the Electoral College now, for many years. That is, because the electors are, in theory, not bound to support any candidate.

The theory upon which the Electoral College was founded by the fathers of the country was that the electors would be better qualified men to select a President than the average citizen.

As the system has turned out, after a period of evolutionary change over the years, electors are generally expected to vote for the candidate who carries their home state. This means, in effect, that a candidate in one state, who receives ten votes more than his opponent, receives all that state's electoral votes. Under the two-party system, it is possible for one candidate to win several close elections in the key states, receiving all the electoral votes, while his opponent, representing the other major party, receives almost as many popular votes, but no electoral votes at all.

In recent years there have been many amendments proposed in Congress, which would abolish the Electoral College system and put the election of a President on a popular-vote basis. The latest proposal to accomplish this end was defeated in the House of Representatives, partially by the opposition of Republican leader Joe Martin and other leading Republicans in the House. Senator Robert Taft's opposition was also influential in the defeat of this proposed amendment. Some Republicans feared that such action would give the South a disproportionate voice in the election of Presidents, since the elections in Southern States are usually one-sided affairs. Thus, Southern States would probably continue to cast a very high percentage of their electoral votes for the Democratic candidate, while many States in other sections would practically split their electoral votes.

Opponents of this school of thought argue that this system would encourage all eligible voters in the South to come out to the polls, thereby insuring a split in the electoral vote of each state. Whatever the final outcome, every citizen should seriously weigh the arguments advanced by both sides of the Electoral College issue. The College is certainly a unique system of Presidential election and may have its advantages, as well as its disadvantages. The average citizen, it appears, will have to decide in the next few years whether the merits of the system outweigh the demerits.

Parachutes and Commercial Air Travel

The old issue of parachutes or no parachutes on commercial air liners has been raised again as a result of a recent crash of a Pan-American plane in the jungles of Brazil. The cause of the crash is still undetermined.

One of the theories advanced, however, is that a fire developed in one engine and the pilot dived the great airliner in an effort to put out the blaze. He might have failed to extinguish the fire or he might have pulled off a wing in trying to pull out of the dive.

At any event, passengers on commercial airliners seldom are provided parachutes and in similar instances usually have no escape from a burning ship aloft. It seems that if only one passenger could be saved by the addition of parachutes, the move would be worthwhile.

Producers Gained With "Fortuitous Profits" By Barley Prices De-Control

(An Editorial in the Winnipeg Free Press, Monday, July 28th)

Last Wednesday in commenting on a letter from Hon. Stuart Garson, Federal Minister of Justice, dealing with the Nolan appeal to the Privy Council, references were made to fortuitous profits arising in 1947 from the decontrol of barley prices.

Mr. Garson stated that the policy of the Federal Government had been to prevent any individual or company from reaping fortuitous profits out of decontrol.

The Free Press commented on this statement as follows:

Much is said by Mr. Garson about "fortuitous" profits. This point has nothing to do with the merits of this question but is a political consideration advanced in justification of what the government did. Little need be said on this score. To begin with, the farmers who grew the barley did not stand to gain by what the government did. The government raised the price of barley 28 1/2 c. It took this profit not from all barley owners in Canada, but only from a group who happened to be in the "designated" area, comprising, largely, the area from the Head of the Lakes to the Rockies. Thus this policy against "fortuitous" profits was only partially applied in March, 1947. But note what followed. In October, 1947, while the 1945 National Emergency Powers Act was still in full vigor and the government was just as well armed to prevent "fortuitous" profits as in the preceding March (of which Mr. Garson writes), the Federal Government suddenly decontrolled the price of barley. The price soared from 93 cents to more than $1.30 cents. Huge "fortuitous" profits out of decontrol were made. There was a public outcry. To appease public opinion, the elevator companies, including the pools, voluntarily paid to the farmers part of these "fortuitous" profits. In view of the record, Mr. Garson's references to "fortuitous" profits are subject to heavy discount.

Without Being Prompted

So far as Mr. Garson's point is concerned this comment is perfectly true. But with regard to the grain elevator companies it is not only open to misconception but, in one particular, requires correction. It should be made clear that the criticism here referred to was directed not at the elevator companies but at the Federal Government. The elevator companies were under no urge or compulsion to "appease" public opinion. They refunded these

"fortuitous" profits voluntarily, without being prompted to do so by the Federal Government or any one else.

What happened was this:

On the evening of October 21, 1947, Hon. Douglas Abbott, then as now Federal Minister of Finance, announced that the price of barley had been decontrolled. The fixed price had been 93c per bushel. It would now be free to find its own level.

As stated by the Free Press last Wednesday there was a stir of protest. H. A. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, issued a statement on October 22 declaring the government's action to be "a staggering blow to the farmers." W. J. Parker of the Manitoba Pool declared the decision to be "unfortunate." George W. Robertson of the Saskatchewan Pool attacked the policy in a radio broadcast, which is reported verbatim in the Western Producer of October 30. Warren Baldwin, then Ottawa correspondent of the Globe and Mail, reported to his newspaper on October 22 that "protests were flooding Ottawa."

A Public Outcry

This is what the Free Press meant when it said that the decontrol of barley on October 21, 1947, caused "a public outcry."

The Winnipeg market opened on October 23. The price of barley rose on the market almost at once to $1.29 and $1.31 per bushel. Here was a "fortuitous" profit of from 36 to 38 cents per bushel on tens of millions of bushels of barley.

The Federal Government, quite contrary to Mr. Garson's thesis—that it would not allow fortuitous profits to be made—did absolutely nothing. The grain elevator companies, including, of course, the three wheat pools, decided, of their own free will, that they did not wish to retain such profits. So far as can be learned they voluntarily paid to the producers every cent of profit so realized.

The original comment of the Free Press was open to the construction that the elevator companies had turned back these fortuitous profits under suggestion or duress. This is not so. No demand of any kind was made on them. They refused to keep these profits as a matter of principle.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Helas!

"What are these tickets I found in my husband's pocket?"

"Your husband is an archaeologist. These tickets are evidence of a lost race."

Two Few Installments

"How do you like my new frock, Jack? I bought it on the installment plan."

"Better take it back and get a few more installments. We're going to a respectable party."

Just As Much

Joe—I met my wife in a very funny way—I ran over her in my car and later married her.

Brown—If everybody had to do that there wouldn't be so much reckless driving.

Life Gets Like That

Jinks—Have you got your automobile paid for?

Binks—Practically. Three more payments and it will belong to the fellow that bought it from the chap I sold it to!

Saved From a Worse Fate

"I've just heard that your boy at College has broken his leg."

"Yes, he's in great luck."

"Sure! He won't be out of the hospital until the football season is over."

Set and Hatch It

Two small boys were out hunting in the woods and one of them picked up a chestnut burr.

"Tommy!" he called excitedly, "come here quick. I've found a porcupine's egg!"

Plenty Time

"Do you think our daughter will ever get married, John?"

"Well, yes, dear, I do. But I wouldn't worry about it for at least twenty years, darling. I never heard of a girl sixteen months being an old maid."

Habit of Complaint

"I suppose you were thankful for the heavy rain."

"Oh, yes," replied Farmer Corn-tassel; "though I don't see why them weather folks couldn't provide to keep it on the fields instead of letting it stray around, muddying up the roads."

The Truth

Little Mary was on a visit to her grandparents, and the old-fashioned clock in the wall was a source of wonderment to her. While she was standing before it her grandmother said to her from the next room, "Is the clock running dear?"

"No, ma'am," promptly replied Mary, "It's just standing still and wagging its tail."

Going a Little Too Far

Bridesmaid—How did your husband's friends treat you?

Bride—Terribly! Why, they threw rice all over us!

Bridesmaid—But that's quite the usual thing, isn't it?

Bride—Yes, but this rice had been cooked.

Careful

Greatly agitated, a woman carrying an infant dashed into a drug store.

"My baby has swallowed a bullet!" she cried. "What shall I do?"

"Give him the contents of this bottle of castor oil," replied the druggist calmly. "And then be sure you don't point him at any one."

Have Patience

Neighbor—How is that incubator doing that you bought?

Mrs. Newbride—I suppose it's all right, but I'm a little worried about it. It hasn't laid a single egg yet.

Different

Auntie—In my day, a nice girl didn't hold a boy's hand.

Modern Gal—Today, a nice girl has to.

New Flame Kindled

Sandy was very much disturbed when his lady love married another, and remarked to an acquaintance that the light of his life had gone out. A year later this friend discovered that Sandy had married and he reminded him of what he had said. "I know," Sandy replied, "but I made another match."

IT'S THE LAW

SGT. L. B. NICHOLSON
Traffic Division, Edmonton City
Police Department

This week we are going to quote the sections of the Vehicles and Highway Traffic Act relating to stop signs and stop streets. They are Sections 53 (1) and 53 (2) of the Act and are both mighty important for safe driving.

It has been said that "familiarity breeds contempt," and so it is with stop signs and stop streets. A person who is familiar with the road he travels on his daily trip to town and back home sees and knows that there are signs at certain intersections and, because he is familiar with all these intersections he soon gets into the habit of "sneaking through" the stop sign without coming to a full stop. And that is when accidents occur.

Every stop sign means just one thing and that, of course, is STOP. If the authorities only wished you to slow down at a certain intersection the sign would say "Slow", but just slowing down at a stop sign is not sufficient. You must come to a full stop and you must not proceed on to the main through highway or street until the traffic conditions on it are such that you can do so in safety. The traffic on the through street has the right of way and it is your responsibility to yield that right of way.

Here then are the two sections of our Provincial Highway Traffic Act that governs traffic approaching and leaving stop signs:

53 (1) Every vehicle being about to enter upon any main or secondary provincial highway as defined in the Public Highways Act, or upon any other highway, which, at the request of the local governing body has been designated and marked as a highway at which vehicles are required to stop, or upon any intersection at which it is required to stop by any by-law of any city, town or village, shall be brought to a stop at a point not LESS THAN TEN FEET nor more than FIFTY FEET from such highway and shall not enter upon the highway either for the purpose of crossing it or of proceeding along it until the conditions of traffic on the highway are such that the vehicle can enter upon the highway with safety.

53 (2) The driver of a vehicle entering a highway from a private road or drive or from an alley-way or lane or from a street or highway on which he is required to stop before entering such highway, shall yield the right-of-way to all vehicles upon such highway.

THE TRADEMARK OF QUALITY FARM EQUIPMENT

District Four F.U.A. Convention At St. Paul

The annual convention of the Farmers' Union of Alberta was held at St. Paul recently. Favored by a bright sunny day in a week of rainy weather a large crowd filled the Parish Hall when R. G. Steinhauer of Brosseau opened the convention at 10 a.m. One hundred and forty delegates from 48 locals, including numerous women and Juniors registered as well as a big attendance of visitors. After a warm address of welcome by the mayor of St. Paul, Mr. Bill Conroy, the convention settled down to business under the chairmanship of A. Macyk of Sprucefield and W. S. Scott of Lessard. The reports of the District Officials showed a remarkable increase in membership since last year and the District on a sound financial basis. The address given by the president of the FWUA, Mrs. W. C. Taylor, made many delegates realize for the first time the various problems confronting farm women. Her explanations of facts for Alberta farm women will no doubt lead many women into the farmers' organization which is interested in their future. Mr. Henry Young, the president of the FUA, in his interesting address touched on the many problems which should be solved if the farmers want to remain solvent and which can only be solved by a farmers' organization comprising a majority of the farmers in Alberta. He congratulated the District on the substantial increase in membership but called for a renewed effort to make the FUA an organization of all farmers in the province.

The Juniors of the FUA, although not present in as large a number as expected, held a separate get-together with the assistance of the Junior FUA President, Miss Mabel Rasmussen of Gwynne, whose address to the convention was enlightening to many. The Juniors' election of Mike Fedoretz of Smoky Lake for Junior District Director found the approval of the convention.

In the elections of officials for 1952-53 Mr. A. Macyk of Sprucefield was elected District Director by acclamation. Mrs. Isabel Steinhauer of Brosseau was re-elected District FWUA Director without opposition. Mr. W. S. Scott of Lessard won the election for District President with an overwhelming majority, while Mr. Wm. Basaraba of Smoky Lake just managed to edge out Mr. J. P. Bourbeau of Fort Kent in the election for vice-president.

When the resolutions came to the floor there was a marked change noticeable from former years which proved that the farmers are really getting down to business. Of 26 resolutions presented the delegates passed only 12 and tabled or rejected the balance. The resolutions showed the desire of the farmers to rectify mistakes of the past and follow a clearly defined line in the future.

With all business on hand disposed of the convention adjourned at 11 p.m., expressing thanks to the Town of St. Paul for the hospitality and to all participants for the interest and co-operation shown.

Third Birthday Present

BROOKS, Ky.—For the third time, Mrs. Sylvia Griffin, 21, presented her husband with a baby on his birthday, July 28. The last one, a boy, was born in July 28 this year. The other children are Diane, 3, and Yvonne, 1.

Electricity, The Wonder Power

VILNA — Long lines of poles have been set up all over the country to carry the heavy wire, charged with that modern wonder power, electricity. The airman at Cold Lake presses a button to turn on a light the garage man at St. Paul may press a button to drive an electric air pump; the housewife at Radway heats her iron; in the oil fields at Lloydminster, in Vegreville, Mundare, Wainwright Army Camp, and over 4,000 homes, besides commercial and industrial plants, people gaily press buttons and thoughtlessly use the "juice" without knowing where it all came from.

At Vermilion there is a huge power plant, with steam generators run by natural gas. The all enclosed furnace burning under a pressure of 10,000 h.p. runs four generators. To keep the engines cool a water system of huge radiators is used. There are four pumps, each capable of delivering 3,000 gallons of water per minute. Only three are used at one time, one being always in reserve for emergencies. The water is pumped to the top of the giant radiators, and falls about fifty feet through a system of large fans which force cool air through it to lower the temperature, after which it is returned to the plant. The boilers use only distilled water, and for them 4,000 to 5,000 gallons must be made every day.

When the plant was opened, it was impossible to get delivery of named after the late Admiral conventional machinery, so salvaged machinery discarded at the end of the war was adapted to the purpose. Boilers and turbines 1 and 2 were removed from the destroyer escort H.M.S. Essington, which in action east of the Azores took the lead in stopping a strong force of enemy submarines moving in to attack an Allied convoy. During the four-day battle its depth charges blew one of the U-boats to the surface and destroyed it. The convoy proceeded unscathed.

Boilers and turbines 3 and 4 were removed from the destroyer escort vessel U. S. S. Chase, Launched on April 24, 1943, the U.S.S. Chase was severely damaged on May 20, 1945, when a Japanese suicide plane crashed aboard her starboard quarter when cruising a few miles from Okinawa. The ship was abandoned but was later salvaged by U.S.S. Converse.

One hundred thousand cubic feet of gas is used per day to maintain steam pressure at 450 pounds per square inch. Five engineers, five maintenance men and two servicemen are employed. Thus people many miles away are supplied with electricity.

The new W.G. Grain Loader being made in Edmonton.

New W.G. Grain Loader Hits Edmonton Markets

The W.G. Grain Loader, the latest thing in farm machinery is now being manufactured in Edmonton. The Loader was designed and is being manufactured exclusively by the Machinery Designers of Canada Ltd. for the William Goett Co.

The company operated in Calgary for four years, with most of their units being shipped north. When an opportunity presented itself whereby the company could locate in Edmonton with some permanence and realizing the potential field for their product in the Edmonton area, negotiated with the William Goett Company, which has a contract to turn out a minimum of 300 loaders by October 15, 1952, plus any other products such as may be desired by the company.

This new grain loader is outstanding inasmuch as it is the only fully ballbearing loader on the market. The machine is streamlined in design for perfect balance and easy moving. The frictionless ball-bearing construction means easy operation in every required loader position. With the height and reach of this loader, it elevates water or grain with equal facility.

The W.G. Grain Loader can be had in various lengths and various horsepower. The motor, to which there is easy access, is centrally located on the loader. It can be used with hopper, in a granary or a truck and can easily be moved from one location to another by attaching to rear of truck, tractor or whatever means of transportation is being used.

The company expects to expand rapidly into a good sized manufacturing company, which will principally manufacture light farm implements and accessories. Besides the W.G. Loader, portable disc grinders, seed treaters, and pump jacks are being turned out.

Former Resident Dies In Edmonton

LAC LA BICHE — A former resident of Lac la Biche passed away at Edmonton. On June 28, Mrs. Raymond Lebeuf of Edmonton, passed away at the age of 61 years. Mrs. Lebeuf was the former Mathilde Lienhart. She was born in Montreal and came to Alberta in 1918 to get married. She has lived in Lac la Biche many years and had moved to Edmonton less than two years ago. The family were well known and respected in this community, and at this time we wish to extend our deepest sympathies to the family.

She leaves to mourn her loss her beloved husband and four children. They are two sons, Roger and Jacques; two daughters, Mrs. Hal Simonson (Fernande), and Therese, Mrs. J. Miltenberger, and five grandchildren. She was buried at Edmonton and funeral services were at Immaculate Conception Church.

LETTERS TO LOUISA

Dear Louisa,

We have a son, who seems to have a turn for mechanics. He fixes everything that gets out of order in the house and we never have to take the car to a shop. But the problem is this. My husband is a doctor and has set his heart on our only son being one also and coming in with him when he gets his degree.

Now, Sonny doesn't care for books, and failed in Latin when he was in High School. Don't you think it is foolish to try to make him take up a profession which he is not the least bit interested in?

Answer:

I certainly do think that it is very wrong to decide a child's life work for him and disregard his own wishes in the matter.

If his father insists on his studying to become a doctor, I doubt if he will be able to pass his work and, if he does, he will probably not be a success.

If the boy is mechanically minded and likes that kind of work, let him study something, with which he can use that talent.

Everyone has to live his own life and the boy who has to follow a profession which he doesn't like, because his father insists on it, will probably be most unhappy and make everyone else around him unhappy.

Louisa.

Dear Louisa,

I have a neighbor who has a small house. His mother has been left penniless, and has nowhere to go. Her son says he has no room for her and it is up to the community to look after her.

I know that he doesn't have a great deal but there is room for her, if the rest of them would make sacrifices.

Can you understand such an attitude?

Answer:

I don't know what is wrong with some of this generation. When I was growing up, children did not question taking care of their parents if they became old and needy.

I do not suppose that they enjoyed it but they accepted it and expected to do what they could if such a situation arose. In fact, most of us would have been humiliated to ask someone else to take over our responsibilities if we could possibly manage to assume them ourselves.

All that I can say is that they are certainly setting a poor example for their own children to follow if they themselves ever need help.

Louisa.

$5,200 Estate Awaits Alberta Resident

CHICAGO, Ill.—Gudrun Halldorson, who would be 73 years old if still living, is being sought in Alberta, Canada, to claim a $5,200 estate left by long forgotten relative.

This became known here when Walter C. Cox, probate genealogist, 208 South LaSalle Street, Chicago, who specializes in tracing missing relatives to settle estates, took over the search with only scant clues.

"The effort to find the woman is complicated," Mr. Cox said, "by the fact that she probably married thus changing her name."

"In the event she is deceased, her children or grandchildren would succeed to the inheritance. "Miss Halldorson is known to have located in Alberta many years ago and was still living there unmarried when last heard from by relatives in the States."

$1 for EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Editor will pay $1.00 for every item published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." To qualify, items must be true, personal incidents. Address "Embarrassing Moments", P.O. Box 4868, South Edmonton.

It happened in the Dirty Thirties. Our teen-ager church club was on a sleigh-ride. Not being able to afford a ski-suit, I was wearing a heavy skirt and, underneath, by my prudent mother's order, a pair of dark blue, fleeced-lined whatsis. On the trip I felt something give way and, to my extreme horror, I realized it was the all-important waist elastic.

From then on, I sat in the hay, and no amount of teasing could get me to budge, either. Working frantically, if secretly, I tried to rid myself of those awful things clinging around my knees. When we got back to the school, I was still far from my goal. I got down in the hay and pretended to be hunting up a rubber. A lovely young Galahad gallantly offered to stay and help me. Horrified, I begged him to go with the other kids and enjoy himself. But he wouldn't and, meanwhile, the teamster was getting very impatient.

Finally, ridding myself of both my embarrassment and the fleeced-lined monster, I gaily announced I was ready to go on into the school. As we went up the steps, my gallant, with a surprised look on his innocent, dumb face, said, looking at my feet, "Gee, Kay, you had both your rubbers on all the time".

FARM UNIONS PRESENT BRIEF TO BOARD OF GRAIN COMMISSIONERS

By HENRY YOUNG, FUA President

WINNIPEG — On Monday, July 21, the Board of Grain Commissioners held their annual public hearing at Winnipeg. The purpose of this hearing was to give all firms or persons interested in the handling of the Western grain crop, a chance to make representations re storage, handling charges, or any matter pertaining to the movement of the crop. Various organizations such as the Line Elevators, the Wheat Pools and the UGG were represented there and presented briefs.

In their briefs, the Line Elevators asked for higher handling charges on grain, and the maintenance of the present storage rates. The Wheat Pools concurred in asking for the higher rates, but suggested a slight reduction in the rates on storage of grain. The United Grain Growers in their submission, expressed willingness to get along for another year on the same rates for handling grain but opposed any reduction in storage rates. All grain handling concerns asked that the present rates for shrinkage allowance be retained, but the Co-ops were willing to have the extra shrinkage rate on damp grain abolished. All grain handling concerns stressed greatly higher operating costs and the fantastic cost of replacing elevators.

The Farmers' Unions of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, were represented at this hearing by their three presidents, Messrs. Shulz, Phelps and Young. Several other members from Manitoba also attended including the vice-president, Mr. Allison. Mr. J. L. Phelps, president of the Saskatchewan Farmers' Union, acted as spokesman and presented a brief on behalf of the Interprovincial Council of the three Unions. The Farm Union brief dealt with a number of matters of vital interest to Western farmers. These may be briefly listed as follows:

1. Shrinkage Allowance — On this the recommendation was made that it be reduced to the actual loss in handling and that no opportunity be given grain handlers to create overages out of shrinkage allowance.

2. Diversion Charges — Note: This is the charge which is allowed grain firms when grain they have in storage is diverted to a terminal other than their own. The Union brief contended that this should be abolished.

3. Inspection Fees — A strong protest was made against the special charge of $1.00 levied against every sample of grain sent in to the Grain Inspection Dept. for grade and dockage. This was a new charge last year.

4. Storage Charges — The Union brief asked for a review of these, with a view to some reduction. It was pointed out that due to con-

3 D's in 3 Generations

COLINTON — David Hay, pioneer merchant of Colinton, with one initial for a short name, could only sign "D. Hay" for his name.

His son, Douglas, has two initials—both D's. He is David Douglas Hay and signs his name "D. D. Hay".

Comes the third generation and young Davy, 6 years old, will have the advantage of three initials. His full name is David Douglas Duncan Hay and will likely sign his name "D. D. D. Hay".

Fourth generation? Well, it's a little too early to tell yet!

gestion, all elevator companies are getting paid for maximum use of their storage.

5. Lake Shipping Rates — A protest was made against the recent increase in lake shipping rates and the suggestion that the Board attempt to bring about a reduction.

6. Grain Overages — A strong protest was made against the accumulation of overages by grain handling concerns, and the demand was voiced that the Board of Grain Commissioners take more effective measures to control this.

7. Request for New Appoint-

Elderly Alberta Couple Complete Air Trip To Old Country

COLINTON — Mr. and Mrs. David Hay, pioneer residents of this district, have recently returned from an extended trip by Trans-Canada Air Lines to Dunblaine and Edinburgh, Scotland. Specific reason for the trip was to visit Mrs. Hay's cousin, Miss Christina Sutherland, of Dunblaine, Scotland.

They left Canada May 20 via Goose Bay, Labrador, and landed in Prestwick, Scotland. On their return trip they stopped off in New York. They left LaGuardia Field on Tuesday morning, and their son, D. D. Hay, picked them up Tuesday evening at Edmonton Airport.

While in New York, Mr. and Mrs. Hay visited the latter's brother and sister. This was their first trip anywhere by air, but at the age of 80 years Mr. Hay is now a confirmed air traveller and both he and his wife say they enjoyed every minute of the trip.

DAT'S ME

Bald, crotchety Clive Weed, who looks like his celebrated cartoons of "the poor taxpayer," relates the story of the drunk who has a weakness for bringing people home with him.

Waking one foggy morning, he looks across the room, makes out the vague form of a woman and says hoarsely: "Are you the beautiful senorita I danced with last night?"

The beautiful senorita replies: "Yessuh, boss dat's me."

ments to Board—A strong protest was made against Mr. Milner remaining as a member of the present Board and also being Transport Controller. It was suggested that he relinquish his place on the Board, and that a practical farmer be appointed to fill the vacancy.

Other points covered in the Farmers' Union brief were grain mixing, and the grave situation arising out of the congestion in country and terminal elevators. Our representations were, on the whole, well received except for the part relating to the dual position of Mr. Milner, which appears to be a touchy point.

Later in the day the Farm Union delegation interviewed the Canadian Wheat Board and discussed the quotas for the 1952 crop. It was suggested to the Board that quotas on the old crop be held open after August 1st so as to give an opportunity to those who have been unable to market their crop due to lack of space. The Board agreed to try and work this out. A request from the Saskatchewan Union for a flat quota based either upon the Province or on large zones was discussed at length, but the Board appeared doubtful as to its practicability.

These discussions are all interesting and helpful, and will doubtless lead to better understanding among all concerned.

On August 3rd news was received from Edmonton of the death in that city of Mrs. Anastasia Swityk, who until recently had lived in the Grassland district. At the time of her passing Mrs. Swityk was 85 years of age. She had been in poor health for about a month, but previous to that had been quite active. The funeral was held in Edmonton on Thursday. Mrs. Bluda and Mrs. Dutchak attended the services from here. Mrs. Swityk is survived by three sons and one daughter, twenty-nine grandchildren and eleven great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Merle Chambers has been visiting at her brother-in-law's north of Grassland, and will be helping there during harvest.

It has been the fate of many hunters to be mistaken for a deer, but it remained for our worthy councillor, Mr. Nick Derko, to be mistaken for a wolf. His wife says she always had her suspicions. Nick says that while inspecting road up north he had to take cover when the bullets got too thick. Later a farmer drove up, and explained that he thought he had seen a wolf in the vicinity.

Mrs. Omelchuk, daughter of Mrs. Shubert, has been visiting her mother at Grassland.
